

Competencies for Food Graduate Careers

Retail Technologist

2nd Edition
June 2023

This is opposed to any graduate scheme entry point. It may evolve into a number of areas of retail (technologist, nutrition, consumer, IT, ethics, 3rd party, category, writing) but traditionally direct entry is via a 'technologist' route.

This also includes roles in Food Service companies where the core business is supplying (not manufacturing) a range products to the hospitality sector; so the structure is similar.

Visit our case studies

Typical Role Names

Retail Technologist

Retail Food Technologist

Category Technologist

Food Service Product Technologist

There are standards for the technical content of UK Food Sciences degrees; but there are more aspects you can develop to support success in the workplace. Industry have outlined what they think may be the most valuable additional skills, knowledge and behaviours for 14 typical graduate roles & this is one of them.

So, what is desirable for a Retail Technologist?

Desirable Elements for this Role

Commercial Awareness
Confidence
Decision Making
Emotional Intelligence
Handling Data
Initiative
Innovation

Environment and Sustainability
Negotiating and Influencing
Professionalism
Questioning Approach
Resilience
Mechanics of Business
Values and Credibility

This material has been developed with industry involvement to support graduates, employers and degree educators. <https://www.ifst.org/resources/competencies-food-graduate-careers>

Find out about more technical graduate roles in the food industry & what may be best suited to you in developing your career with our partners: